Picks you up in a really nice car, lives at his parents, big brick house with another big brick building beside it that is a pool i think? Hardwood floors ? May also go by the name of Doug Patrick?

Or Doug Kent

AUG 27, 5:06 PM

Yes

Ugh. Been there, done that. The crazy thing about it, and it should have been a red flag for me in the first place.....was he made me park my car somewhere else. He wouldn't let me just drive to his house.

It's just so crazy to come across that today of all days. Considering I just had to file sexual harrasssment on someone at work today. My emotions are just all over the place. 😭

What happened with him if you don't mind me asking?

We met on a dating app, POF I think. Started talking, was super nice never really made me feel weird. He told me we should hang out and watch a movie sometimes. I said I'd rather go out and do something instead of just coming to his house. He made up some excuse after excuse why he didn't want too. So one night I decided to go hang out. He gives me and address and says to meet him there.

I asked him why not just give me his home address? He said there's not a lot of parking there and his parents don't like a bunch of cars in front of the house.

Do you still have messages with him?

That should have been my first red flag. So I parked my car at the rite aid and go[t] [in] his car and he goes to the tan[ni]ng [b]ed, and leaves me in the car. Whatever. Still not

He had me wait in his dads truck
so he could go in the tanning salon too.

I don't have anything either. I feel like I'm not believed because I don't have proof.

But he stopped for awhile, then mid movie went and closed his door all the way and just was persistent and told me I needed to not make any noise because I did not want his mom as a problem. I SHOULD have fought him, I should have screamed, but I didn't have my car there and I didn't really know which direction to go to get back to it. I was afraid if I made a big deal of it something was going to happen.

I know this is a weird question, but when it happened did he leave his boxers on?

That's why I won't come forth, no evidence and no one will believe me. Yep. All clothes were left on. My pants were only pulled down enough for access, same with his.

I just laid there because I didn't know what to do, as froze and scared. He took a.. of my clothes

I talked to the detective this morning. I was no proof. You should come forward anyway.

I have*

What did the detective say?

He gave me his card, and said if I have any questions or remember anything to give him a call

If you can log into your pof account, he can find proof. That's what he told me, I just need my old username

I'll give him a call at least. I still use the same account I did back then.

Okay! Let me know, we can all nail him if we just come forward.

So even though it's been so long back....he can still somehow find the messages?

That's what he said

I'm going to meet with them not this weekend, but next. I come home to visit that weekend. I don't live in WV anymore.

Okay
